THIRU K. T. K. THANGAMANI : On yesterday's proceedings, I want certain clarifications. If we want to raise questions about what had happened yesterday, are we allowed to go through the proceedings or not? Of course, they may be uncorrected copies. In the Lok Sabha the uncorrected copies of the proceedings are kept in the Library for the benefit of Members the next day. When I approached the Office to-day to go through the proceedings, I was told that it will be made available only after seven days. Yesterday, the Hon. Speaker was pleased to give a direction with regard to a privilege issue and arising out of that the Hon. Speaker was pleased to rule that he can bring a Privilege Motion suo moto and dispose it of. That is how I understand the issue. I do not have the proceedings with me. The Hon. Speaker said that he can invoke rule 192 : 'Notwithstanding anything contained in these rules, the Speaker may suo moto refer any question of privilege to the Committee of Privileges for examination, investigation or report.' My humble submission is this. If the Hon. Speaker reads the entire Chapter on 'Privilege', he will know that there is no such discretion. It is not left to the Hon. Speaker and he is not authorised to do so. The convention always is normally that the Hon. Speaker will not bring such an issue on his own accord but leave it to the Members to raise it on the floor of the House. Then the matter is raised by some Member. If there is a prima facie case, the
